Liette Doucet elected new NSTU president

Senior elementary teacher and president of the Halifax City Local will take office August 1 as the 44th president of the Nova Scotia Teachers Union. Doucet was elected with 56.08 per cent of the votes cast. She will become the sixth president and fourth woman of the 10,300-member organization to be elected by universal suffrage. She is the eighth woman to hold the post in the NSTU's 221-year history. Doucet is also the only child of a former president of the NSTU to become president of her union. Her father, Harold Doucette, was president from 1980-84.

Doucet was declared elected the evening of June 2 following the close of on-line voting in a run-off election by public school, community college and APSEA members.

"I am incredibly honoured to serve as NSTU president," she says. "I want to make NSTU members proud that they supported me, and I will do everything I can to support them."

Liette Doucet has been a teacher for 26 years and during that time has served as the Halifax City Local's president for 10 years, from 2004 to 2011 and from 2013 to present. She has volunteered with the NSTU at the Local, regional and provincial level. This includes chairing the Halifax Regional Representative Council for six years, the Halifax Regional School Board/NSTU Article 60 committee for four years, and the Regional Negotiating Committee for three terms, and serving on the Classroom Climate Committee (Article 63), Professional Committee and regional job security committee.

"NSTU members in both public school and community college systems face unprecedented challenges," she says. "I will continue to work to improve communication, raise the public profile of NSTU members and educate the public as to what teachers, faculty and professional support members do and face on a daily basis."

Additional platforms include ensuring the workplace safety of NSTU members, fighting for realistic standards addressing class composition and class size and continued work in addressing demands on teachers time at all levels.

To win the presidency, Doucet defeated NSTU's First Vice-President Wally Fiander on the second ballot. Four other candidates running for NSTU president, provincial executive member Damian Hall, former provincial executive member Shawn Hanifen, Antigonish Local member Cyril MacGillivray, and Halifax County Local member Paul Wozney were dropped after the first ballot on May 25 when no one candidate garnered a 50 per cent plus one majority.

Doucet holds a Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Education from Saint Mary's University, an Associate in Education from the Nova Scotia Teachers College and two Master's of Education from Mount Saint Vincent University, one in science and one in technology.

A breakdown of Local-by-Local results from the first and second ballot elections can be found on pages 14 and 15.

Canadian teachers call on governments to end austerity budgets

NSTU president Shelley Morse joined 20 other teacher unions' presidents in calling for provincial and territorial governments to address concerns about the state of education in the country. "We need governments to take immediate action in the areas of educational reform, inclusive education, austerity budgets and teachers' mental health and wellness," says Morse.

Morse was attending the Presidents of the Canadian Teachers' Organizations meeting in St. John's, Newfoundland and Labrador from May 29 to June 1.

"The prevalence of austerity budgets put forth by provincial governments, including Nova Scotia, undermine the education system, and students, teachers and families are losing out."

Minister files for Conciliation for Public School Contract

On June 2, 2016, The Minister of Education and Early Childhood Development, Karen Casey, requested that the Minister of Labour and Advanced Education appoint a Conciliation Officer pursuant to Section 23 of the Teachers' Collective Bargaining Act.

After the formal appointment is made, the Conciliation Officer has a 14-day period to meet with the parties to assist in concluding a tentative agreement. It is possible that a longer period could be requested. At the end of the process the Conciliation Officer will report to the Minister of Labour and Advanced Education as to whether they have been successful in assisting the parties to conclude a tentative agreement.

Following meetings with a Conciliation Officer information will be forwarded outlining one of the following:

- The procedures to be followed by the Union to ratify a tentative agreement.
- The options available to the Union under the Teachers' Collective Bargaining Act if the Conciliation Officer is unable to conclude a tentative agreement.

Further information about this process and next steps will be provided at regional meetings taking place around the province. Information on dates and locations will be forwarded through NSTU email.

The most recent negotiation sessions were held on May 19, 20, 25 and 26, 2016. The current Teachers' Provincial Agreement remains in full force and effect until a new agreement is reached in accordance with the Teachers' Collective Bargaining Act.

Northside-Victoria Local School Visit

NSTU president Shelley Morse met with Northside-Victoria Local president Milton Bonnar, and members of the Local's executive as part of a tour of schools in the Local on May 5 and 6.

Support for Fort McMurray colleagues

The NSTU provincial executive approved a donation of $25,000 for Local 48 of the Alberta Teachers' Association, For McMurray at its June 3 and 4 meeting. This money will be used by the Local to help support teachers affected by the wild fires that took place in Fort McMurray in early May, which saw some 88,000 people evacuated. NSTU president Shelley Morse is shown with ATA Local 48 president Nancy Ball. Ball is originally from Kentville, Nova Scotia, and left Nova Scotia in 1981 to teach in Alberta. Morse met Ball while she was attending the ATA AGM in May. On June 4 Ball tweeted

"Your support and thoughts mean more than we can express. Thank you."

NSTU supports Feed Nova Scotia

This school year, the NSTU once again supported Feed Nova Scotia in lieu of printing and sending Christmas/holiday cards. NSTU president Shelley Morse, presented a cheque of $2,500 to Feed Nova Scotia's executive director Nick Jennery, on June 3, during the June provincial executive meeting. The NSTU donation will provide 3,750 meals for Nova Scotians in need. Jennery was very grateful for the NSTU donation and commented to the executive that, "What your support does is more than just feed the hungry, it makes an impact on the self-esteem of people who find themselves in a vulnerable spot."

CCRSB's Excellence in Teaching Awards

On May 3, 16 teachers employed with the Chignecto-Central Regional School Board (CCRSB) were honoured by CCRSB and the Nova Scotia Teachers Union for their unwavering commitment to student success at the 2016 Excellence in Teaching Awards ceremony. "It is always a wonderful opportunity for CCRSB to collaborate with the Nova Scotia Teachers Union and recognize the amazing educators that make a lasting difference in the lives of students," says Trudy Thompson, CCRSB Chair.

Each year, the NSTU and CCRSB come together to recognize those teachers within the school board who truly exemplify excellence in teaching. Kings Local president Natalie MacIsaac a Prime Minister Award winner

Kings Local president and English, drama, and theatre arts teacher, Natalie MacIsaac, was recently chosen as Nova Scotia's only teacher to receive a 2015 Prime Minister's Awards (PMA) for Teaching Excellence award.

She was surprised to hear that she received a Certificate of Achievement PMA, one of 50 educators from across Canada to be honoured this spring. "I love my job, but it's totally overwhelming that I'm getting something I know a lot of my colleagues deserve, but people have told me that it's a once in a lifetime thing, so I should just enjoy it."

She feels fortunate to work with students and teachers who spark her passion. "The students and teachers I work with truly inspire me and my lifelong learning."

MacIsaac, who has been teaching for nearly 20 years, is currently on a deferred salary leave from her English, drama, theatre arts and African Heritage teaching assignment at Horton High School.

Her recognition includes $1,000 for her teaching program. "It's very exciting. Now I can get everything I wanted for my drama classroom."

Her nomination says she's, "Enthusiastic, energetic, engaging and encouraging," that she incorporates dance and movement into her classes and uses her community contacts for student learning and leadership.

When MacIsaac is not on deferred salary leave she organizes her school's musicals, volunteers for the provincial High School Drama Festival and provides opportunities for her students to work with community theatre groups. She also co-ordinates a creativity and action program for IB students and helped develop the Department of Education and Early Childhood Development's African Heritage course.

Through her NSTU involvement, she's well aware of the challenges teachers face, but is also aware of the many rewards of teaching and the impact it has. "I love that I can find out what matters for students and what they care about and incorporate those things into my teaching."

What has really struck her about this whole process is that her vice-principal nominated her. "It's nice to know that he believes in me and that I could get nominated for something I have so much passion for, it's a huge reward."

She also thinks it's kind of cool that she's getting an award from a prime minister who was a drama teacher.

The Prime Minister's Awards (PMA) for Teaching Excellence honour outstanding and innovative elementary and secondary school teachers in all disciplines who instil in their students a love of learning and who utilize information and communications technologies (ICT) to better equip their students with the knowledge and skills needed to excel in a 21st century society and economy. Austerity budgets do little for the public good

Over a number of years, the attacks on organizations nationwide have augmented substantially. This year many Canadian unions have been under attack from all fronts. The aim of governments is to fragment unions, federations, and associations with a divide and conquer mentality.

The use of austerity measures to balance budgets is increasing globally; however, austerity policies lead to funding cuts and disintegration of benefits and services. Austerity does nothing for the public good, instead the practice creates more disparity for our most vulnerable and marginalized citizens. The true agenda is more about cuts and privatizing services under the guise of economic growth.

The assaults on public education have deteriorated working conditions in all provinces and territories, and have negatively impacted learning—all to the detriment of our students and teachers. Common themes and issues are prevalent across Canada: conditions of practice; classroom diversity and learning needs; lack of supports for inclusion; standardized testing; lack of marking and preparation time; threats and acts of violence; and high absenteeism rates, low student engagement levels, and lack of accountability/responsibility on the part of parents and students for achievement.

The International Monetary Fund has deemed austerity policies to be a complete failure. Their research concluded that austerity measures do not increase growth, but in fact, stifle growth and increase inequality and instability. They concluded that “the increase in inequality threatened to be self-defeating. There is now strong evidence that inequality can significantly lower both the level and the durability of growth.”

According to the Council of Canadians, class warfare is alive and well “because of the way austerity takes from the poor and transfers it to rich multinationals, bondholders and other financial capitalists.” Tom Walkom (2010) says, “Today, class resentments have been turned on their head. The focus of anger is not against the silk-hatted capitalist, but his unionized workers, with their job protection guarantees, their pension plans and their good wages...Resentment has become a potent tool of the right...The new resentment is based on the presumption that if I don’t have something, neither should you...It is a form of resentment that suits those in charge.” Premier McNeil proved this sentiment to be true in Nova Scotia in a newspaper article in 2015, when he referred to teachers as, “people who have the good fortune of being part of the public sector.”

Recently in this province, unions have stood together and rallied against austerity measures. Member organizations across Canada have also supported each other against government attacks to our unions. On June 1, 21 provincial and territorial teacher organization presidents united in support of the members of the Newfoundland and Labrador Teachers’ Association who are dealing with an assault by their province’s Liberal government, which has slashed education budgets in the name of austerity. We held a press conference denouncing austerity practices and the importance of fully funding public education for the common good. The presidents are united in the premise, “If it touches one of us, it touches all of us.” We all know, from personal experience, that education cuts never heal.

Austerity measures are also an attack on women and children. A study recently released by the Canadian Centre for Policy Alternatives (CCPA) says, “the Newfoundland and Labrador budget will worsen gender inequalities in the province...The study reviews the impacts of the 2016-17 budget on girls and women...and finds it will decrease the income of the most vulnerable women, public service lay-offs will lead to greater unemployment for women, and cuts to education will negatively impact girls.” Comparatively, the same is true in Nova Scotia as the majority of teachers in this province are women, and many employees in the public sector are women as well.

Provincial and territorial governments have taken aim at teacher organizations in an attempt to target their effectiveness and undermine the membership. What some people seem to forget is that unions created the middle class, are good for the economy, assist with the income gap, and are responsible for gaining rights and benefits for workers.

Les budgets d'austérité ne contribuent en rien au bien public

Au cours des dernières années, les attaques contre les organisations syndicales à l'échelle nationale ont considérablement augmenté. Cette année, de nombreux syndicats canadiens ont subi des attaques sur tous les fronts. L'objectif des gouvernements est de fragmenter les unions, les fédérations et les associations dans l'esprit de diviser pour mieux régner.

L'usage de mesures d'austérité pour équilibrer les budgets augmente partout; toutefois, les politiques d'austérité entraînent des réductions de financement et la désintégration des avantages sociaux et des services. L'austérité ne contribue en rien au bien public, par contre cette pratique crée davantage de disparité pour nos citoyens les plus vulnérables et les plus marginalisés. Le véritable objectif est en fait de réduire le financement et de privatiser les services sous prétexte de croissance économique.

Les offensives sur l'enseignement public ont détérioré les conditions de travail dans toutes les provinces et les territoires et ont un impact négatif sur l'apprentissage—tout cela au détriment de nos élèves et de nos enseignants. Les thèmes et les problèmes communs se retrouvent partout au Canada : conditions d'exercice de la profession; diversité des classes et des besoins d'apprentissage; manque de soutien à l'inclusion; tests standardisés; manque de temps pour la préparation et la notation; menaces et actes de violence; taux d'absentéisme élevé; faible niveau de participation des élèves et absence de responsabilisation et de responsabilité de la part des parents et des élèves pour la réussite scolaire.

Le Fonds monétaire international (FMI) a estimé que les politiques d'austérité étaient un échec total. Les recherches ont conclu que les mesures d'austérité n'améliorent pas la croissance, mais au contraire étouffent la croissance et augmentent l'inégalité et l'instabilité. « Elles ont conclu que l'accroissement des inégalités menaçait d'être contre-productive. Il est maintenant manifeste que les inégalités peuvent réduire considérablement à la fois le rythme et la durabilité de la croissance. »

Selon le Conseil des Canadiens, la lutte des classes est bel et bien vivante « à cause de la manière dont l'austérité prive les pauvres et transfère la richesse aux multinationales, aux détenteurs d'obligations et autres capitalistes de la finance ». Tom Walkom (2010) déclare : « Aujourd'hui, les rancœurs de classe ont été inversées. La colère n'est plus dirigée contre le capitaliste au chapeau de soie, mais contre ses ouvriers syndiqués, avec leurs garanties de protection d'emploi, leurs régimes de pension et leurs bons salaires... La rancœur est devenue un outil puissant de la droite... La nouvelle rancœur repose sur la présomption que si je ne possède pas quelque chose, vous ne devriez pas le posséder non plus... C'est une forme de rancœur qui convient très bien aux responsables. » Le Premier ministre McNeil a prouvé que ce sentiment était réel en Nouvelle-Écosse dans un article de journal paru en 2015, quand il a parlé des enseignants comme « des gens qui ont la chance de faire partie du secteur public ».

Récemment, dans cette province, les syndicats ont fait front commun et se sont ralliés contre les mesures d'austérité. Les organisations membres partout au Canada se sont également soutenues mutuellement contre les attaques des gouvernements à l'égard de nos syndicats. Le premier juin, 21 présidents d'organisations d'enseignants provinciales et territoriales se sont unis pour soutenir les membres de la Newfoundland and Labrador Teachers' Association qui font face à une agression par le gouvernement libéral de leur province, qui a réduit drastiquement le budget de l'éducation au nom de l'austérité. Nous avons tenu une conférence de presse pour dénoncer les pratiques d'austérité et expliquer l'importance d'un système d'enseignement public pleinement financé dans l'intérêt commun. Les présidents sont unis autour du principe suivant, « Si cela touche l'un des nôtres, cela nous touche tous. » Nous savons tous, par expérience personnelle, que les entailles faites à l'éducation ne guérissent jamais.

Les mesures d'austérité sont aussi une attaque contre les femmes et les enfants. Une étude récemment publiée par le Centre canadien de politiques alternatives (CCPA) déclare : « Le budget de Terre-Neuve-et-Labrador va aggraver les inégalités entre les sexes dans la province... L'étude examine les répercussions du budget 2016-2017 sur les filles et les femmes... et conclut qu'il va réduire le revenu des femmes les plus vulnérables, que les licenciements dans la fonction publique entraîneront davantage de chômage chez les femmes et que les coupures budgétaires à l'éducation auront un impact négatif sur les filles ». Comparativement, il en est de même en Nouvelle-Écosse car la majorité des enseignants dans cette province sont des femmes, et beaucoup d'employés du secteur public sont également des femmes.

Les gouvernements provinciaux et territoriaux s'en prennent directement aux organisations d'enseignants dans le but d'éroder leur efficacité et de démolir leurs membres. Ce que certaines personnes semblent oublier est que les syndicats ont créé la classe moyenne, sont favorables à l'économie, contribuent à réduire les écarts de revenu et sont les garants de l'obtention des droits et des avantages sociaux pour les travailleurs.

 - Les fournisseurs de sites Web et les fournisseurs de services Internet et de télécommunications doivent faire une enquête approfondie sur toute plainte de cyberconduite répréhensible ou de cyberintimidation et prendre les mesures qui s'imposent (retirer le contenu concerné de tous les liens, y compris dans les archives) lorsqu'il existe des preuves manifestes qu'un site est le théâtre de cyberconduite répréhensible ou de cyberintimidation.

The Evolution of Teaching Standards

by Dr. Anne Rodrigue, recently retired Deputy General Secretary, Elementary Teachers' Federation of Ontario and former NSTU executive staff officer

The professional teaching standards movement is a worldwide phenomenon nested in the accountability and performance agenda of global education reform, and the rationalization of education spending in the public sector. Introducing teaching standards is seen as a response to the increased complex demands put on education systems, linked to improving student outcomes and addressing external demands from parents, governments, and employers.

The move to establish teaching standards began in the United States in response to the publication of the 1986 Carnegie Commission Report A Nation Prepared: Teachers for the 21st Century. In Britain, the introduction of the National Curriculum in the 1980s, and the focus on improving student achievement in numeracy and literacy led to a renewed focus on teacher preparation, credentials, and practice. But the professionalism movement in its multiple re-enactments is not only restricted to the United States and Britain.

In 2010, a report commissioned by the International Labour Organization indicated that 100 countries were implementing, developing or considering adopting teaching standards. In Canada teaching standards have been adopted by the British Columbia College of Teachers, The Ontario College of Teachers, and Alberta Education to name but a few. Many frameworks for teaching standards have been in effect for decades.

Establishing teaching standards can help define the qualifications, knowledge base, and competencies required to teach. Teachers have often complained that everyone thinks they can teach; they recognize that teaching requires specialized knowledge and an inventory of skills and knowledge that includes content and pedagogical knowledge, presentation skills, and a deep understanding of individual and collective learning needs. Teachers and everyone engaged in the daily life of a school, recognize the complexity of providing effective learning for all.

Teaching standards have not only been used by governments but by the profession itself to improve the status and salaries of teachers and also to address the flat career path in teaching by introducing new categories or salary designations for differentiated career paths such as master teacher or coach. This has been the case in the United States where professional organizations such as the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics and others, have established various levels of accreditation and designation.

Teaching standards address levels of competency from novice to master teacher and also span the career of a teacher from pre-service candidate, to the probation or induction period and the ongoing professional development or life-long learner phase. During the early 2000s in Ontario, teachers had to be recertified on an ongoing basis and beginning teachers had to pass a teacher test in order to be qualified. Those requirements were rescinded in response to teacher union pressure and issues associated to costs and the bureaucracy necessary to support teacher testing.

Teaching standards vary across jurisdictions depending on who developed them. In many cases, teachers, and the organizations that represent them, collaboratively developed the standards. In other jurisdictions, parents and members of the public were also asked to provide their input on the standards that should govern teacher qualifications, competency, and performance.

Standards also drive teacher evaluation both formative and summative. Teacher performance is aligned to the standards and the indicators developed from these standards—the look fors that a principal will use to determine if the standards are being met.

Standards impact the design and delivery of professional learning as the content of professional learning programs may be linked directly to Ministry or Board initiatives and will determine how and what learning opportunities a teacher can take and be recognized for. In this era of evidence based decision making it will be necessary to justify how professional learning directly impacts student learning outcomes. A question that arises from the linking of professional development to standards is, "What will be the place, if any, for teacher self-directed learning?"

Teacher standards can also be used to coordinate educational policy and ensure that all education partners are working on the same page.

It is believed that qualifications and competency frameworks otherwise known as teaching standards will help promote teacher life-long improvement but the difficulty lies in achieving a common understanding of what the standards really mean.

Good teaching standards should define good teaching—what does it look like? We also need to determine how good teaching will be assessed—what measures will be used, how will data be collected? Finally, how will we define good enough? What does it mean to meet the standards?

Developing and implementing teaching standards is a long technical process and should be collaborative in nature to ensure the buy-in of education partners. These standards need to be legitimized, and validated in the context in which they are being used.

An OECD research paper, innovative Teaching for Innovative Learning, (2013), indicates that to develop learning standards for students rarely takes less than four years and that developing teaching standards takes only a slightly shorter time.

Implementing teaching standards is not system tinkering; it is the re-engineering of an entire system.

Good Dental Health Promotes Happiness and Wellbeing

by Dr. Jenine O'Malley, DDS, AACD

It is not widely understood that neglected dental health, if not cared for, may lead to serious general health conditions, both physically and mentally. It seems to be widely held that dental decay is the most prominent cause of loss of tooth structure. In fact, there are many other more significant culprits of tooth loss. Attrition, abrasion and erosion of tooth structure all lead to destructive dental disorder. With the loss of tooth structure, there is resulting tooth sensitivity or pain, loss of function and compromised esthetics.

Equal to the physical impacts are possible consequent mental or emotional problems. An unpleasant smile often negatively impact ones personality, making one self conscious and even reluctant to smile. All forms of tooth loss should be identified, managed or restored to preserve the integrity of our dentition.

Discussed below are some facts and tips for the promotion and maintenance of good oral dental health.

DENTAL DECAY

Tooth decay is the most prevalent chronic disease worldwide and there is a strong connection between the frequency of sugar-intake and tooth decay. The average Canadian consumes approximately half a cup of sugar per day with intake including soft drinks, power drinks, juices and ready to drink coffees and tea. The sugars we consume fuel the plaque containing bacteria on the surface of our teeth, resulting in an acid by-product, which decays tooth enamel and can lead to more severe conditions including pain, infection, tooth loss and even whole body sepsis.

TIP - It is very important to minimize sugar intake. By alternative, fruit juice consumption can be substituted with fluoridated water. If you don't have time to brush after a sugary treat, rinse your mouth with water, or munch on a fibrous fruit, raw vegetables or acid reducing cheese. Brushing twice daily with fluoridated toothpaste and flossing is a must!

TEETH GRINDING

A more advanced cause of tooth loss is tooth wear as a result of biting stresses. Tooth wear can occur from grinding your teeth at night. Grinding or clenching often happens subconsciously and is by stress. If you experience headaches, clicking of the jaw, or facial muscle pain you are likely grinding your teeth while you sleep. In advanced cases, tooth loss in the form of 'notch shaped' indentations can also occur at the gumline.

TIP - Ask your dentist about fabricating you a bite plane to wear at night. This can stabilize these symptoms and prevent further tooth loss.

Grinding and tooth wear also occur if there is interference in your bite. Sometimes you will notice a premature contact when your teeth first come together or you may notice you have two completely different bites.

TIP - Having your bite adjusted (occlusal equilibration) by your dentist can completely address this by making your bite more stable. Wearing a bite plane can help manage interference with your bite.

ACIDIC FOODS AND GASTRIC REFLUX

Additional culprits such as citric fruits, wine, fruit juices, vinegar, pickles, soda and even coffee are highly acidic and will frequently cause teeth erosion. It must be remembered that as few as "four acidic occasions" throughout the day can put our enamel at risk to acid wear.

TIP - Avoid foods with high acid content and limit the number of acid food intakes throughout the day. Celery, carrots, cauliflower and cucumbers are all healthy non-acidic alternatives.

Gastric acid reflux, the flow of stomach acid back through the esophagus into the oral cavity, could have the same impact on teeth as the acidic foods mentioned above.

TIP - Consult your doctor about medication to control acid reflex

IMPROPER SELECTION AND USE OF TOOTHBRUSHES

Brushing with a hard bristled toothbrush or brushing heavy-handedly can cause tooth attrition at the gum line, resulting in gum recession and tooth sensitivity. Electric toothbrushes used regularly can also be too abrasive.

TIP - Be sure to always buy an ultra-soft toothbrush and use short gentle strokes to avoid tooth loss at the gum level. Sometimes tissue grafts and tooth coloured restorations can be placed to address gingival recession and sensitivity.

SELECTION OF TOOTHPASTES

Toothpastes are often chosen on the basis of media advertising only. It is important to choose your toothpaste very carefully to ensure it does not contain detrimental components. Ingredients such as baking soda are very abrasive, causing enamel loss at the gumline and can also result in tooth sensitivity.

TIP - Choose your toothpaste after analyzing the advertised content on the container. Avoid using toothpastes with high percentage of bleaching peroxides for extended periods of time. If you have sensitive teeth, a toothpaste with higher fluoride content is your best choice.

BEFORE

BAD HABITS

Unfortunately many people develop habits that may not only compromise tooth structure but also esthetics.

Nail biting will cause loss of tooth structure of the biting surface of the involved teeth with compromised esthetics as the teeth wear.

We often find in the dental profession tongue and lip rings are also culprits of chipping and thinning of the enamel surfaces of teeth. As tooth abrasion occurs, teeth can also become sensitive.

TIP - Practice avoiding these detrimental activities

IN THE EVENT OF PHYSICAL OR EMOTIONAL CONDITIONS RESULTING FROM LOSS OF TOOTH STRUCTURE, IT IS RECOMMENDED YOU CONSULT WITH YOUR DENTIST FOR RESTORATIVE OR CORRECTIVE OPTIONS.

BIG TIP

All forms of tooth loss, not only tooth loss caused from dental decay, can and should be restored. Restorative intervention is particularly recommended if loss of tooth structure is into dentin and there is a complaint of sensitivity or an esthetic concern. Cosmetic bonding is a common procedure used in dental restorative care where a tooth coloured restoration can be placed to restore the integrity, esthetics and function of your teeth. Cosmetic bonding often requires no tooth preparation, is painless and can be achieved in one visit. It is often covered by private insurance and the results can be beautiful, yielding restorations that blend seamlessly to the rest of your dentition. Treatment not only restores the health of your teeth, but also the confidence in your smile!

REMEMBER TO BOOK REGULAR BIANNUAL APPOINTMENTS WITH YOUR HEALTHCARE PROFESSIONAL.

Dr. Arab O'Malley operates Halifax Dental Studio in Clayton Park which focuses on the restoration of esthetic and wear using tooth preservation techniques. Dr. Arab O'Malley was recently recognized as Atlantic Canada's first internationally accredited cosmetic dentist.

Cindie Collette Conrad

students, school and community. She also sees great value in the program. "To be nominated and recognized as a teacher who has made a difference was an honour," she beams. "I feel that I am surrounded by amazing teachers who love their jobs and who try every day to make an impact on their students and on their families."

"We have a wonderful job but I think sometimes people don't always realize all of the extra time we put in our work to make sure that every student feels special and receives a quality education. I think it is a wonderful initiative on behalf of the NSTU and hope that it will continue."

Cindie Collette Conrad has been a teacher at École Bois-Joli since she graduated from the Université de Moncton in 2003. Since that time she also completed Master's in Education Second Language from Université Sainte-Anne.

"I have taught Grade 2 and mostly Grade 5, which I absolutely love," she says.

Collette Conrad is one of 10 recipients of this year's Teachers Make a Difference campaign and is the Conseil scolaire acadien provincial representative for this year's campaign.

"I'd heard about the Teachers' Make a Difference program for the first time this year after seeing the promotion on TV," she says. "I remember thinking that it was wonderful to recognize teachers and I was actually getting chills thinking how special it would be for a teacher to be nominated."

She says the phone call that gave her the good news she was selected as one of this year's recipients came at a very good time.

"When I got the call, it was at the end of October and I was working on my report cards, which is a very busy time of the year for all teachers," she points out. "I was so surprised to hear the news! It really made my day and after listening to what the person who nominated me wrote about me—my teaching habits, how students felt in my classroom—I really was touched. The fact that a parent took the time to nominate me was the best gift ever."

The parent who nominated Colette Conrad had many great things to say about how she makes a difference for students—"Her priority is to make sure all of her students feel that they belong in her classroom. They know that they will be respected and how to show respect. They feel special, valued and important, which will make them work to their fullest potential. She wants all of her students to understand the outcomes and will take the extra time to help those that are struggling. She is able to motivate those that need it too. Her students are always sad to leave her classroom at the end of the year. They feel loved, and can therefore concentrate on learning."

Based on the nomination it's easy to see how she makes a difference for her

Teachers who make a difference

Dana Jewers

NSTU president Shelley Morse presented Dana Jewers with his Teachers Make a Difference award and $300 cheque at his school on May 5. They are shown with Fanning Education Centre/Academy principal Jeff George.

A Brookfield, Colchester-East Hants native, and currently living in Antigonish County, Jewers still feels at home teaching in Canso. "My Dad grew up in Guysborough County and we stayed in my grandfather's house when I first started teaching."

He loves teaching in rural Nova Scotia. "Not being from here, my students have always made me feel welcome," he comments. "There is a lot of parental support in this community." He says the says that the strong home and school connection, "is a great way to make a positive impact for students. It's a testament to teaching and working in rural Nova Scotia."

He loves his school and the great teaching and school staff and administration he works with. "Students have real sense of home here and we continually try and build that throughout the curriculum and in extracurricular activities."

Jewers has given the $300 cheque from his Teachers Make a Difference award to the school's breakfast program. "This initiative (Teachers Make A Difference) helps to build up the public perception of what teachers do—it's not only the curriculum but other things we do as well. We wear many hats and it's important for the public to have more awareness of that fact. I hope the program will continue."

Dana Jewers didn't know what to think when he was called out of an inservice to take a phone call last fall. The phone call let him know that he was a chosen recipient of this year's Teachers Make a Difference program. "I was in a math session and was kind of shocked when I was asked to leave the session to call the school—my mind started to race," he admits.

The Grade 4-5 classroom teacher and Grade 6-7 math teacher at Fanning Education Centre/Academy is married to Guysborough County Local's president, Deena Jewers. "Through my NSTU involvement I was well aware of the program, but some of my students kept asking about the campaign—it was clear that they knew about my nomination." He has been a NSTU rep for two years and is currently the vice president of professional development for the Guysborough County Local.

"I really think to get an award from students and parents is very meaningful, when it comes from the students you teach and their parents—that's special," he says. "The fact that they have to take the initiative to nominate you and it's not something imposed on them is really great."

Jewers' nominator has high praise for him. "We all have that one teacher or two that has made a lasting impression on us. One that has a gentle manner to push students—sometimes without them even knowing it—to be at the top of their game, to think outside the box to expand their capabilities and knowledge or give them that extra boost of confidence they may need on that day. For my daughter and her friends, that teacher has been Dana Jewers. He is an exceptional teacher who is thought and spoken highly of, by his students, and their parents."

"I am honoured and blessed that I am one of 10,000 teachers that was selected," Jewers remarks. "There are a lot of great teachers here."

Jewers has also taught at Tamarac Education Centre, in Port Hawkesbury, St. Mary's Academy in Guysborough and St. Andrew's Junior School in Antigonish over his 10-year teaching career. He studied at Lakehead University in Thunder Bay where he received his BA and BEd and he also has a math certificate from StFX.

Teachers who make a difference

Jo Anne MacDonald

NSTU president Shelley Morse presented Community College faculty member Jo Anne MacDonald with her Teachers Make A Difference Award at the Strait Area Campus on April 1. They are shown with Community College Local executive member Julie Marchand (Business Faculty member), NSTU Campus rep Carroll MacIsaac (Carpentry Faculty member), and Strait Area Campus Business Academic Chair Christena Goyetche.

As a faculty member instructing in NSCC's Continuing Care Assistant (CCA) program, Jo Anne MacDonald teaches her students to become competent and compassionate care workers, so they can enhance the lives of the people and communities they serve. In turn, Jo Anne MacDonald enhances her students' lives and she has been recognized for that as this year's Community College recipient for NSTU's Teachers Make A Difference program.

"I was very surprised to be nominated, but I was also very honoured," she says. "I was excited to be recognized by a student."

It's evident in the nomination from one of her students that she is worthy of the recognition. "I am nominating my instructor—teacher Jo Anne MacDonald. She has been an amazing instructor for my fellow classmates and me. I have very high anxiety and going back to college at 38 was so scary for me. She made me feel so calm and relaxed and made me feel that no matter what, I can do this! She gave me confidence to succeed. She makes our course so realistic that you can not help but enjoy and learn, she always puts us first and will help us no matter what!"

As a Registered Nurse of 40 years, MacDonald is able to relate and connect her experience for the benefit of her students. "I started my teaching career as a casual Nursing Faculty at Strait Area Campus in October 2000, assisting the core faculty in the Skills Lab," she says. "As an RN I did teaching every day with patients and other nursing staff, and this helped me tremendously to adjust to teaching in front of a class of eager students."

She began teaching in the CCA program but also worked with the Practical Nursing Program at the Pictou Campus for several months before getting a full time job with the CCA Program at the Strait Area Campus in 2002, where she currently teaches. "I teach all the subjects for the CCA Program, she says. MacDonald has also taught for the Practical Nursing Program and is a facilitator for the Alzheimer's Course and Palliative Care Course.

MacDonald says it's nice to be recognized through the Teachers Make A Difference program. "It just adds a little more meaning to the hard work a teacher does," she says. "The entire campus celebrated my win. It was exciting. It was so nice to hear congratulations so many times."

"But I certainly do not teach with the thought of getting a reward," she continues. "My reward is watching the students walk across the stage at graduation. So many of the students have many challenges they have to deal with while taking the course—family life, raising children, being a single parent, working part time. I am so proud to be a part of their successful journey."

Her passion for her students, teaching and her program has clearly made an impact for her students, campus and community.

"I was very humbled that a student took the time to nominate me. I tend to expect a lot from my students and I want them to be the best caregiver they can be. It certainly makes a person feel good to be told they are doing a good job. I feel so blessed to work at a job that I truly love and to be recognized for my dedication is rewarding."

Executive Director's Remarks to Annual Council 2016

I am happy to say our collective efforts show progress in social media, technology, setting a foundation to a restorative approach in our meetings and numerous other activities.

The most interesting was the resolution passed last year to implement a restorative approach to meetings of the NSTU. In February, there was a presentation to the Equity Committee on a restorative relational approach that highlights the theory and practice. The restorative approach helps us to think about the relational impact of our decisions on others.

One area that is ever-changing and makes a big difference in the way you do business is social media. The Union is quite pleased with the progress in this area. A Communications Support Specialist was hired this year to help strengthen our involvement with social media. What is our progress report for the six-month period? We increased our Facebook likes by 69 per cent. We increased Twitter follows by 25 per cent. Our response rate on Facebook has improved (currently 100 per cent with a 12-hour reply time). Twitter analytics shows 41 per cent increase in tweets, 36.3 per cent increase in tweet impressions, 16.7 per cent increase in profile visits, 49.1 per cent increase in mentions, and 63 per cent increase in followers.

We are also working with Orenda Solutions, an online monitoring software service that interprets what people are saying about an organization and provides a refined analysis. It measures reputation broken down by six measures: trust, influence, satisfaction, commitment, character, social responsibility, and exchange of benefits. Our recent measure: Trust - 88 per cent; Influence - 44 per cent; Satisfaction - 63 per cent; Commitment - 64 per cent; Character - 54 per cent; Social Responsibility - 65 per cent and exchange of benefits - 85 per cent, with a general score of - 83 per cent.

In technology, a new website and app was launched this year. We have more capability and able to access most things on the screen. There is ongoing work will further develop our capabilities and facilitate access for members.

A successful Sheonoroil conference was held in the fall. Safe Schools – One Peace at a Time provided dynamic and fabulous speakers on mental health issues in the classroom. NSTU's Insurance Trustees and Johnson Inc. are sponsoring a Mental Health and Wellness Grant to support innovative initiatives that promote the mental health and well-being of children and youth in the schools/campuses across Nova Scotia.

The 2015 Pension Valuation showed that our funded level decreased from 77.3 to 76.7 per cent. Our assumed rate of return was decreased from 6.4 to 6.25 per cent. The markets were not as cooperative as we would like and we missed our assumed rate of return by 2 per cent. The decrease would have caused the fund to drop more however the additional contributions by members and government and a positive adjustment to the plan for inactive members saw only a slight decrease. I urge all members to review the valuations and keep informed about your pension plan.

This has been a very busy year for staff with negotiations. Meetings were held across the province with the tentative agreement and then following the rejection of the agreement, there was Bill-148. Bill 148, Public Services Sustainability Act, was introduced on December 1, 2015, received Royal Assent on December 18, but has not yet been proclaimed into force. The Act imposes a wage settlement and will not allow for further accumulation of service awards. We appeared before Law Amendments committee recommending withdrawal of the Act as it interferes with the collective bargaining process. The NSTU also held a march around the legislature in protest to the Bill. NSTU staff worked relentlessly on your behalf in trying to protect the contract and collective bargaining.

Both parties have returned to the negotiating table. Community College negotiations have also begun.

As part of the Minister's Action Plan and the Centre of Teaching Excellence, the Minister plans to release the Teaching Standards this June. The Deputy Minister invited us to send staff to attend meetings on Teaching Standards in November, and we sent a Provincial Executive member and a staff member to regional focus groups held across the province in February and March. Since the Department met with our representatives in January, extensive consultation was undertaken by the Department with education partners across the province. The Department took the feedback collected at each session and incorporated it into the original document.

The Union expressed concern to the Deputy Minister and requested that there be a slow down on the implementation schedule, that we be provided with supporting documents and revised standards for the NSTU for review and feedback.

We need further information on how the proposed standards interface with a number of Articles in our collective agreements. We know from the Minister's Action Plan and information given on the Teaching Standards that evaluation and certification are to be aligned with Standards.

Remarques de la directrice exécutive à l'AGA du Conseil 2016

J'ai le plaisir de vous dire que nos efforts collectifs ont engendré des progrès dans les domaines des médias sociaux, de la technologie, de la mise en œuvre d'une approche réparatrice dans nos réunions et dans de nombreuses autres activités.

Le plus intéressant a été la résolution adoptée l'an dernier de mettre en œuvre une approche réparatrice lors des réunions du NSTU. En février, une présentation a été faite au Comité de l'équité au sujet d'une approche réparatrice/relationnelle qui met en avant la théorie et la pratique. L'approche réparatrice nous aide à réfléchir sur l'impact relationnel de nos décisions sur les autres.

Un domaine qui est en constante évolution et modifie considérablement la façon dont vous menez vos activités est celui des médias sociaux. Le syndicat est très satisfait des progrès dans ce domaine. Un spécialiste du soutien aux communications a été embauché cette année pour aider à renforcer notre participation aux médias sociaux. Quel est notre rapport d'activité pour cette période de six mois? Nous avons augmenté nos « J'aime » sur Facebook de 69 %. Nous avons augmenté nos suivis sur Twitter de 25 %. Notre taux de réponse sur Facebook s'est amélioré (il est actuellement de 100 % avec un temps de réponse de 12 heures). L'analytique de Twitter révèle une augmentation de 41 % des tweets, une augmentation de 36,3 % des impressions de tweet, une augmentation de 16,7 % des visites de profil, une augmentation de 49,1 % des mentions et une augmentation de 63 % des suiveurs.

Nous travaillons également avec Orenda Solutions, un service logiciel de surveillance en ligne qui interprète ce que les gens disent au sujet d'une organisation et fournit une analyse détaillée. Il mesure la réputation en fonction de six critères : confiance, influence, satisfaction, engagement, caractère, responsabilité sociale et échange d'avantages. Nos récents résultats : confiance – 88 pour cent; influence – 44 pour cent; satisfaction – 63 pour cent; engagement – 64 pour cent; caractère – 54 pour cent; responsabilité sociale – 65 pour cent et échange d'avantages – 85 pour cent, avec un score global de 83 pour cent.

En matière de technologie, nous avons lancé cette année un nouveau site Web et une nouvelle appli. Nous avons une capacité accrue et nous sommes en mesure d'accéder à plus de choses sur l'écran. Des travaux sont en cours pour développer davantage nos capacités et faciliter l'accès pour les membres.

Une conférence Sheonoroil très réussie s'est tenue à l'automne : Safe Schools – One Peace at a Time. Elle a offert des présentateurs dynamiques et fabuleux qui ont parlé des problèmes de santé mentale en classe. Les fiduciaires du régime d'assurance du NSTU et Johnson Inc. parrainent une bourse pour la santé mentale et le bien-être en vue de soutenir des initiatives novatrices qui favorisent la santé mentale et le bien-être des enfants et des jeunes dans les écoles et les campus partout en Nouvelle-Écosse.

L'évaluation 2015 de notre régime de pensions a révélé que notre niveau de capitalisation avait diminué, passant de 77,3 % à 76,7 %. Notre taux de rendement présumé a diminué, passant de 6,4 % à 6,25 %. Les marchés n'ont pas été aussi coopératifs que nous l'aurions souhaité et nous avons raté notre taux de rendement présumé par 2 %. Cette diminution aurait entraîné une baisse accrue du fonds toutefois des cotisations supplémentaires des membres et du gouvernement et un ajustement positif au régime pour les membres inactifs ont permis que cette diminution soit seulement légère. J'incite tous les membres à passer en revue les évaluations et à se tenir au courant du régime de retraite.

Cela a été une année très occupée pour le personnel en matière de négociations. Des réunions se sont tenues dans toute la province au sujet de l'accord de principe, et puis, suite au rejet de l'accord, il y a eu le projet de loi 148. Le projet de loi 148, Public Services Sustainability Act (loi sur la durabilité des services publics), a été présenté le 1er décembre 2015, a reçu la sanction royale le 18 décembre, mais n'a pas encore été proclamé en vigueur. Cette loi impose un règlement salarial contraint et ne permet pas l'accumulation des primes de service. Nous nous sommes présentés devant le Comité des amendements législatifs pour recommander le retrait du projet de loi car il entrave le processus de négociation collective. Le NSTU a également organisé une manifestation devant la législature pour protester contre le projet de loi. Le personnel du NSTU a travaillé avec acharnement en votre nom pour tenter de protéger la convention collective et les négociations collectives.

Les deux parties sont retournées à la table des négociations. Les négociations du Collège communautaire ont également commencé.

Dans le cadre de son Plan d'action et du Centre d'excellence de l'enseignement, la ministre prévoit de publier les Normes d'enseignement en juin. La sous-ministre nous a invités à envoyer du personnel pour assister aux réunions sur les normes d'enseignement en novembre, et un membre du Comité exécutif provincial et un membre du personnel cadre ont participé à des groupes de discussion régionaux qui se sont tenus dans toute la province en février et en mars. Depuis que le ministère s'est réuni avec nos représentants en janvier, une vaste consultation a été entreprise par le ministère avec les partenaires de l'éducation dans toute la province. Le ministère a retenu la rétroaction recueillie lors de chaque session et l'a incorporée au document initial.

Le syndicat a fait part de ses préoccupations à la sous-ministre et a demandé à ce que le calendrier de mise en œuvre soit ralenti et à ce que nous recevions les documents à l'appui et les normes révisées en vue d'un examen et de commentaires par le NSTU.

Nous avons besoin davantage d'information sur les interférences potentielles des normes proposées avec certains articles de nos conventions collectives. Nous savons d'après le Plan d'action et les informations fournies sur les normes d'enseignement que l'évaluation et l'accréditation sont censées être alignées sur les normes.

Le NSTU continuera à suivre de près le projet de normes d'enseignement et à y répondre de manière appropriée durant l'année à venir.

Nous devons avoir notre mot à dire dans toutes les réformes qui auront lieu au sein du système éducatif. Nous devons conserver une attitude positive et faire preuve de flexibilité. Nous avons également besoin d'un vote de solidarité de nos membres pour faire en sorte que nos prochaines conventions collectives préservent, renforcent et améliorent nos conditions de travail et d'emploi.

Je tiens à remercier l'ensemble du personnel pour sa collaboration en vue de la préparation et de la tenue de l'AGA du Conseil.

Je tiens également à remercier le Comité exécutif provincial pour son soutien constant et pour l'efficacité de son processus décisionnel en séance.

Shelley Morse est un excellent leader; c'est une personne bienveillante qui a constamment défendu les intérêts de nos membres. Elle a trouvé le temps et l'énergie d'avoir des conversations en tête-à-tête avec les membres. Shelley connaît bien les enjeux importants pour les membres et elle a pressé la ministre et le ministère au sujet d'un certain nombre d'enjeux récurrents tout au long de son mandat de quatre ans : les conditions de travail des enseignants, PowerSchool®, Tienet®, les bulletins scolaires, la pauvreté des enfants, la violence dans nos écoles – la liste est longue.

Je vous remercie, Shelley, d'avoir travaillé avec moi au cours des trois dernières années et je vous souhaite tout le succès possible dans vos projets futurs et pour votre retour en salle de classe l'an prochain.

J'ai hâte de travailler en collaboration avec le prochain président pour faire en sorte que nous restions le porte-parole puissant qui est nécessaire pour façonner l'avenir de l'éducation en Nouvelle-Écosse. Nous avons besoin d'une énergie solide et positive pour aller de l'avant et maintenir une organisation dynamique et efficace qui fait progresser la profession enseignante et favorise une éducation de qualité financée par les fonds publics pour tous les Néo-Écossais.

« Ce que je cherche n'est pas là-bas, c'est en moi. »

Merci.

Executive Director's Remarks (English)

The NSTU will continue to monitor closely and respond appropriately to the Teaching Standards in the upcoming year.

We need our voice in any changes to take place in the education system. We need to maintain a positive attitude; be able to demonstrate flexibility. We also need a show of solidarity by our members to ensure our next collective agreements maintains, enforces and improves the terms and conditions of our employment.

I would like to thank the entire staff in working together for the preparation and holding of Annual Council.

I would also like to thank the Provincial Executive for their continued support and effective decision-making at the table.

Shelley Morse is a strong leader—she is a caring individual and has consistently stood up for our members. She took the time and energy to have face-to-face conversations with members. Shelley knew the issues for members and drilled the Minister and Department on a number of recurring issues throughout her four-year term: working conditions of teachers, PowerSchool®, Tienet®, report cards, child poverty, violence in our schools—the list goes on.

Thank you, Shelley, for working with me for the past three years and all the best in your future endeavors and returning to the classroom next year.

I look forward to working together with the next President to continue to make sure we are the strong voice needed to shape the future of education in Nova Scotia. We need strong, positive energy going forward to make sure we keep a dynamic effective organization that advances the teaching profession and promotes publicly funded quality public education for all Nova Scotians.

“What I am looking for is not out there, it is in me.”

—Helen Keller

Thank You.

Belief Statement and Call to Action

The Presidents of the Canadian Teachers' Organizations met in St. John's, NL on May 29 - June 1, 2016. The Presidents have developed the following Belief Statement and Call to Action due to overwhelming concerns on educational reform, inclusive education, austerity budgets and teachers' mental health and wellness.

Belief Statement

WE BELIEVE... that austerity budgets undermine the strength of our public education system as students and their teachers lose out, and families are left out.

WE BELIEVE... that publicly funded public education must be fully funded to support student learning.

WE BELIEVE... that a successful inclusive education model requires sufficient funding and teachers/educators to ensure student needs are addressed.

WE BELIEVE... that assessment of students is best left to the professional judgement of teachers.

WE BELIEVE... that fiscal deficits must not be solved at the expense of the public education system or on the backs of our children.

Immediate Call to Action

On behalf of our over 300,000 teacher members, we call on the provincial and territorial governments across Canada to take immediate action to address the concerns expressed by the national presidents of the provincial and territorial teachers' organizations.

Kings Local members address poverty

The Kings Local organized a PD session on April 20 entitled Making the Invisible, Visible! as part of the Local's social action plan to help people living in poverty.

This joint venture of the Local's Equity Committee and PA/PR Committee featured a panel of speakers including: Community College Kingstec faculty member Tim Amos, representing the Canning Food Bank; John Andrew, director of Open Arms (Kentville); Russ Sanche, director of The Portal (Kentville); and Greg Mackin, Principal of the Adult High Schools in the AVRSB.

"Our goal was to give our members some background on the organizations in our communities that are working to help those living in poverty," says Kings Local president Natalie MacIsaac. "This will help us learn how we can better help those organizations to ultimately aid the students we see every day who use and or could benefit from these organizations."

MacIsaac was amazed at all the learnings from the panel of speakers at the event on April 20. "The importance of access to services that we take for granted like dental and medical care was highlighted," she says. "What is resoundingly important is how these organizations create a sense of community and connectedness for people."

She also says that for members of her Local it has given them more background and information on community organizations that can help support students living in poverty and their families.

MacIsaac points to Leslie Frank's Poverty Report Card (2015), which was the compelling piece of literature behind the committees' work. "As the action component of this information session, NSTU members in the schools in the Kings Local were challenged to collect funds and/or items and determine which organization they would like to see their donations go."

MacIsaac says the Equity Committee encouraged NSTU members at schools, "To help the groups in our area who are offering services to those in need, and to address a very real need for many we see in our classrooms every day."

At the Local's AGM on May 17, NSTU representatives brought what had been collected so the items could be bundled for each organization.

"We hope that our members will continue to be engaged with the organizations in our communities that work to help the same people for whom we are already trying to make a difference. Our collective efforts, no matter the size, can have a positive impact," adds MacIsaac.

Kings Local Equity Committee Liaison Cathy Burgess, Debbie Reimer from CAP (with grandson), John Andrew Director of Open Arms, Committee Member/VP of PA/PR Bev Roy, Tim Amos from the Canning Food Bank, Troy Coldwell representing The Portal (Kentville), and Equity Committee member Rosalie MacDonald at the May 17 Kings Local AGM.

Above are the panelists who spoke at the April 20 Making the Invisible, Visible! session

National Carl Orff Canada Conference 2016

Bridges 2016, the National Carl Orff Canada Conference, drew thirteen music teachers from Nova Scotia to Saskatoon, Saskatchewan from April 28 to May 1. The days were jammed packed with music making and performances to inspire the 275 delegates who attended.

Presenters from Australia, Salzburg, USA, and Canada offered enrichment in areas such as movement, improvising, dance, voice, music literacy, story-telling, and playing instruments, plus sessions on caring for Orff Instruments and Orff Course Mentoring.

Mini concerts scheduled between the sessions gave music teachers the opportunity to observe several Children's Groups. Their performances and participation are always a highlight at Orff conferences.

The following videos are available in DVD format for a limited time and in limited quantities for only $1.62 each except where noted. Click HERE to order your copy or email us at mediadub@ednet.ns.ca.

Bully Dance

The “stick people” in Bully Dance are imaginary, but this gritty tale of childhood bullying is all too familiar. While this video offers no simple solutions, it does compel viewers to take stock of their actions and to find ways to end the painful experience of peer abuse. (2000; 11 min.)

Grades P-12

Bully Smart
This four-video set explores positive ways to recognize and deal with bullying situations. Students are encouraged to work together to build a zero-tolerance policy toward bullying, while practicing skills that will both prevent and reduce bullying problems. Titles include: Don't Stand By (15 min.), Five Ways to Stop a Bully (15 min.), Are You a Bully? (20 min.) and Help! I'm a Bully (15 min.). (4 DVDs $6.48)

Grades 4-6

Feather Boy
This six-part series is adapted from the award winning children's book, Feather Boy by Nicky Singer. The story is about Robert Nobel, a boy who is the butt of classroom jokes and a victim of Niker, the classroom bully. His life changes when a storyteller invites some of his class to Mayfield House, a place Robert has already dreamed about, where he meets a spiky old lady called Edith Sorrel who chooses him as her partner. He embarks on a series of events that will change their lives forever. (2004; 180 min.) (6 DVDs $9.72)

Grades 4-6

Gum in My Hair
Did you know: 41% of students reported being involved in social bullying as either victims or bullies; bullying occurs in school playgrounds every seven minutes and once every 25 minutes in class; every month, 13% of Canadian students report being victims of electronic bullying? This video is an engaging, entertaining answer to the serious problem of bullying. It offers young people concrete techniques that they can practice and use in response to ongoing bullying. (2006; 21 min.)

Grades 4-9

In Other Words
Homophobic language is a common verbal put-down among young people. This video speaks to teens and offers a valuable tool to teachers, counsellors and community youth leaders who want to explore the homophobic language heard in schools and other youth hangouts. Weaving together slang, music media images and dictionary definitions, the film examines how language shapes attitude. Teacher preview recommended. (2001; 27 min.)

Grades 7-12

One of Them
A group of high school students plan events to raise awareness about racism, sexism and homophobia. Jamie is shocked when she and her best friend become victims of homophobic name-calling but she must face up to her own reactions as she realizes that her friend is one of them, and needs her support. And Jamie's boyfriend must decide if he will support Jamie. Teacher preview recommended. (2000; 26 min.)

Grades 7-9

See a Bully, Stop a Bully
Bullying expert Detective Bill E. Finder shows young elementary students how they can become “Junior Bullying Detectives.” Using his old case files, Detective Bill helps viewers identify various types of bullying, appreciate how the targets of bullying feel, and gain insight into what children really think about bullies. This lively program helps viewers consider the consequences of their own behavior, understand the behavior of others, and feel comfortable turning to adults for support. (2006; 15 min.)

Grades P-3

We're In, You're Out: Looking at Cliques
Finding their niche in a particular social group can be the most important focus in a youngster's life. The idea of being left out or not belonging to a particular group can make kids miserable. This program helps youngsters look at the positive and negative impact of cliques on both individuals and groups. (2005; 16 min.)

Grades 4-6

In addition to our lending and duplication collections, the Media Library also has videos that can be downloaded or streamed. Please log into the EduPortal and click on the link for “Online Video Library/ Learn360” to access these digital titles.

Shannon Park School creates room for mindfulness

Do you ever wish you had a quiet space to go to—somewhere to collect your thoughts? Somewhere to just get away from it all for a few minutes and reset? Well, that's what the staff and students are doing on a daily basis at Shannon Park Elementary School in Dartmouth.

They have set up a Mindful Room for small groups of students and staff to go in and choose from a variety of quiet activities for 15-minute blocks of time. In this quiet space, they offer colouring activities, a chessboard, Buddha Boards, a lava lamp and fishtank to watch, yoga mats, comfy blankets, and pillows. Nature sounds and relaxing music fill the room and guided meditations and yoga sequences are also available to listen to and follow. There is a supervisor in the room, but the students' choice of activity is always self-directed. There are also noise-cancelling headphones so people can have silence if that's what they need.

The goal of the room is to offer students and staff a place to go where they can be quiet with their thoughts and get back on track if they're feeling anxious, worried, restless, or if they just need a few minutes to relax. In the midst of our busy, noisy, and fast-paced lives, we're finding it helpful to have a quiet place like this to go and recharge.

The Shannon Park Mindful Room has really taken off, there are now over 70 students using the mindful room on a regular basis each week. The school is now looking at ways to accommodate all the students because they now have more students wanting to use the space than they have adults to supervise.
